¿What is Enersoc?

An online tool for Social Energy Management in Households to help vulnerable people to save on their energy bills

Directed to:

- Social workers
- Social NGOs
- Consumer organizations
- Volunteers

Developed from the experience gained since 2013 helping almost 4,800 households in Spain

 4800
households

 Average savings 30%

Achieved with:

- Micro energy efficiency measures
- Energy Efficiency Habits
- Change of energy contracts to adapt to real needs

¿How does it works?

Enersoc guides you to carry out the energy diagnosis of vulnerable families by collecting and recording data of the socio-economic situation of the families, the conditions and equipment of their households, energy consumption and the type of their energy contracts

From these data, enersoc automatically generates a customized report with recommendations to reduce energy bills.

Functions

Energy diagnosis of a household without necessarily having knowledge about energy

Automatic and personalized reports for each household with recommendations on: Energy Efficiency habits, optimization of electricity contracts, social bonus and micro-energy efficiency measures.

Assessment of whether the person can enjoy the electric social bonus.

Guarantees the confidentiality of the data of the people served thanks to access with username and password.

Registration and Follow-up of the people attended to know if the recommendations have been implemented and detect those who need support.

Functions

Access at any time to the data and reports of each person attendend

Keep files of each case attended (photos of the invoice, photos of the house, etc.)

Measurement of the impact (potential and final) in terms of energy poverty: economic savings in energy bills and improvement of comfort in the home, and climate change: reduction of CO2 emissions.

Download the data of the people served for analysis in aggregate form and establish indicators to characterize vulnerability and energy poverty in the municipality or region
